G. Frank, a well known citizen and merchant of this city, who some time ago suffered a severe injury when struck and knocked down by a motor-car is reported slowly improving at the General Hospital, where he is a patient. His condition is now regarded as indicating that he is out of danger, but he has not yet sufficiently improved to warrant his leaving the hospital. He may be there for some time yet.

This information, which is from a reliable source, will doubtless be a relief to many friends of Mr. Frank, whose injuries were regarded as critical and whose condition has but recently shown sufficient improvement to warrant the statement that he is regarded as past the danger mark.

Federal Court Acquits Negro

The Fall term of the federal court closed yesterday evening at four o'clock after remaining in session for the better part of two days. Two jury trials took place acquittals being entered in each case. One man pleaded guilty and in default of $450 fine was ordered to Danville all to serve out his fine.

Most of the session of court was taken up with the trial of Theodore R. Clark, a negro charged with exhorting from a letter money order for $25 made payable to Edward Bell at Durmid postoffice, and foraging Bell's name to it. The government presented Clark's confession in support of its case. The defense repudiated it and introduced that Clark had made the confession under duress. The judge ruled that if Clark had made the confession that he was not guilty. The government then presented the case for the jury to find. The jury found Clark not guilty. The government then presented the case for the jury to find. The jury found Clark not guilty.

After dinner when the jury reassembled it lost no time in concurring with the court's belief and Clark was dismissed. It was his third trial in Danville on this charge and at a considerable cost to the government. Many people in the courtroom were surprised at the intimate relationship between the judge and jury so different that in the state court. Lawyers and federal attaches, however, said it was not unusual for Judge McDowell to express his opinion of the case to the jury. In the federal practice the jury alone determines innocence or guilt and the court invariably sets the sentence. Judge McDowell spoke to the jury for about fifteen minutes at which time he told them that he thought he would be over in his duty were he to fail to express his opinion. The result of the judge's expression to the jury was tantamount to an instruction for a verdict "not guilty." After the case was over it was learned that during the first half hour during which the jury deliberated the prospect of a disagreement was by no means remote. After hearing the court's remarks, however, those in favor of a conviction swung over to the acquittal side.

Authors of "Nut Letters" Are Dangerous

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 10.—Psychiatry has taken a new tack in crime suppression.

Hitherto used largely to diagnose apprehended felons, this study of aberration is now being employed by Los Angeles in wholesale examination of "nut letter" writers to check insane lawlessness.

More than 1000 authors of weird epistles reaching the police have already been designated for lunacy tests on warrants issued as fast as practicable.

Many of these correspondents have heretofore been considered harmless pests. But a recent report by a psychiatrist commission—especially appointed for that purpose—declares the majority of them potentially dangerous.

All Dangerous

"This is the first step in a scientific drive on the criminal class in Los Angeles," said Chief of Police R. Lee Heath. "It is the first venture in our broadened policy of crime prevention, as against crime cure."

"Every person with a disordered mind is in some degree dangerous either to society or himself. And the report of our investigators shows that probably a big majority of chronic 'nut letter' writers are mentally unsound."

"The cunning of the insane has often kept them beyond detection in actual circumstance, but with a corps of trained psychiatrists of the Southern California Academy of Criminology to examine suspects, we are more than likely to clear up certain bizarre mysteries."

Dr. Thomas Orbison is chairman of the committee of psychiatrists which has already recommended the examination of at least 1000 letter writers. This committee has before

Senator Glass Nails Story Placing Him In Attitude of Criticism Toward Davis

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 9.—A Washington newspaper was severely taken to task today by Senator Carter Glass for publication of a dispatch which placed the senator in the attitude of criticizing the Democratic nominee for president, John W. Davis. In a letter to S. S. Cline, editor of the Evening Star of this city, Mr. Glass declared that "The publication in the Star in both its headline and text, would indicate that I had made an unfriendly criticism of Mr. Davis, whereas the letter itself in the highest terms applauded Mr. Davis and approved the fine way in which he is acquitting himself on the stump. The text and evident meaning are contorted out of all shape.

The letter referred to was written by Senator Glass to W. L. Kingsolving, of Richmond, under date of Sept. 9. It contained the following paragraph:

The nomination of Mr. John W. Davis was so good an achievement that I scarcely hoped it would be brought about. In my judgment, he is easily the best man of the place, and I am gratified to know that he is acquiring himself finely on the stump, although not much of a deliverer in presidential campaigns touring the country for votes."

Hospital Plans Not Yet Finished

A meeting of the Danville academy of medicine was held in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce last night. The purpose of the meeting was to consider the plans for the new hospital. The members were much pleased with the general plan, but decided to appoint a committee to study the details of the plan and to meet with the building committee of the hospital at an early date. This committee consists of Drs. S. E. Hughes, C. T. Carter, Clyde L. Bailey, R. W. Garrett, H. A. Wiseman and H. J. Langston.

It was further definitely resolved that every doctor in town should make it his business to examine these plans and submit in writing to the Building Committee any ideas or suggestions he may wish considered.

A letter from the secretary of the Medical Society of Virginia, was read, requesting this society to send delegates and alternates to the meeting of the State society to be held in Staunton in October. Dr. R. B. James and Dr. I. C. Harrison were selected as delegate and alternate, respectively.

The academy adjourned to meet next Tuesday night at 8:30 at the same place to adopt a new constitution and to take up the regular work of the organization for the ensuing winter, and also to receive the report of the committee constituted last night on details of the hospital plans. Every member is urged to be present at this meeting.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brings Joy to Homes by Removing Cause of Trouble

Brooklyn, N.Y., "I was working after I got married and the young lady who worked next to me asked me if I had any intentions of having a child. I told her I would be the happiest woman on earth if I could become a mother, but I always had terrible cramps, backaches and headaches. She then told me of a woman she knows who took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for the same troubles and it helped her greatly. I took about a half bottle and found that the following month I did not suffer any pain, so I kept on taking it. I have a wonderful baby boy six months old and he is as strong and fat as any one could wish a baby to be. I still take the Vegetable Compound regularly because I have looked fine all the time and felt fine and my mother told me that was the reason. I will be glad to have you publish my testimonial with my name and address."—Mrs. EDWARD WERBECK, 1824 Greene Avenue, Brooklyn, N.Y.

I was afraid that I could never have any more, for I had been told that I never could have a living child for I was not strong enough to carry one. But they were mistaken and I had a nice baby boy and now I have five children. I can't praise your medicine enough. My youngest sister has taken it, too, and praises it!—Mrs. G. L. WISWELL, 48 Mechanics Row, Auburn, Maine.

These cases are similar to many others reported to us. It is well for women to carefully consider such statements as to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. It may bring great joy to your home.

Over 100,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

98 per cent of these replies are "Yes."

That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take this medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This goes to prove that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure-all—can and does do good work. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a medicine for women.

How the Motor Industry Set the Pace for Highway Building

The "horseless carriage" of yesterday is now being produced as the modern automobile at the rate of 4,000,000 a year. The total number of motor vehicles registered in the United States is over 16,000,000.

And automobiles built today are more than ever capable of economically serving both business and recreation needs.

But there is an obstacle standing in the way of its maximum service to owners.

For while the automobile industry made paved highways an economic necessity, the mileage of such roads is today years behind the requirements of modern traffic.

Happily motorists everywhere are boosting for more and wider paved highways.

And extensive experience has taught them that Concrete Highways are one of the best all-around investments they can make—an investment that pays big dividends.

As one of our 16,000,000 motorists you know better than anyone else the need for more and wider Concrete Roads. Start now to help your local officials provide them.

FIGHTING IS RESUMED

SHANGHAI, Sept. 10.—Cessation of the deluge which halted fighting along the front south and west of Shanghai was the signal for resumption of firing along the whole line this morning between the forces of rival governments battling for the possession of Shanghai.

Reports from the Lungwa headquarters of the defending forces this morning said that additional advances were made against the invading forces in the Hinku street, west of Taihu lake, 90 miles west of Shanghai. The Chinese troops reported the capture of the village of Susan in their drive to take Hinku.

The drive on Hinku is part of the campaign to take Chanzow, the point from which the Chinese forces hope to attack the Kiangsu troops from the rear line on the Shanghai-Nanking railway.

A force of Chekiang troops penetrated beyond Anting today, where they were reported to be in possession of Kiangsu forces, Lungwa announcements said.

General Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian warlord, who has been mobilizing his forces since Sunday, is expected to open a new offensive tomorrow against the Wu Peifu Peking forces, thus creating a new battle line between Peking and Mukden, principal city of Manchuria, according to reports received at Lungwa today.

The proposed expedition of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, head of the South China government, in support of Chekiang, is reported to have been delayed for tactical reasons. The Canton merchants have refused to contribute necessary funds in spite of the inducement that by the support of the expedition they would be able to capture the Wu Peifu forces. The troops themselves are also alleged to be disinclined toward the expedition.

Contrary to the report current in Peking, Shanghai has not been proclaimed in the capital.

Slayers of Franks Get Life Terms

anxiously as Nathan Jr. and Richard were herded quickly back to the elevator to be returned to their cell. Then as the elevator came rapidly Jacob Loeb interrupted an interview by newspapermen with an "Oh, Clarence, they are waiting, let's go."

Nathan Leopold Jr. had recovered his composure, opened his cigar case and puffed as they fled from the room.

Edward Gresham, uncle of the murder victim, the only member of the Franks family in the courtroom, refused to comment on the sentences. He shook his head in refusal when asked for the Franks family's acceptance of the sentences for the murderers of Robert.

Mr. Darrow was commenting on possibilities of parole for Jacob Loeb and Nathan Jr. The defense counsel chief said paroles could be applied for after twenty years of life sentences had been served but thought that it required 37½ years of imprisonment before paroles could be applied for under the sentence of 99 years in the penitentiary.

Judge Caverly remained, in his chambers after delivering his sentence for about three-quarters of an hour. When he left it was a private car, surrounded by guards and went away from the building so swiftly that on-lookers in the street were not aware of his identity.

FIVE HUNDRED ARMED GUARDS ON DUTY

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—In a setting without parallel in the criminal jurisprudence of Illinois, the dramatic Franks case reached its climax here this morning.

For the sentencing of Richard Loeb and Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., confessed kidnapers, hundreds of detectives and policemen, mounted, motorcycle and patrolmen, formed a bristling barrier about historic Cook county jail, a central court building and two automobile loads of picked-up riflemen were told off to accompany Judge John R. Caverly to his desk in the criminal courts section.

The Illinois law for murder carries death on the gallows. Life imprisonment, fourteen years to life and directing a trial by jury. The prosecution pleaded for the death penalty. Defense asked for life imprisonment on the grounds that the youths were mentally deranged though not insane.

During the hearing and during the fortnight since Judge Caverly retired to study the lengthy record and formulate his decision, he was the focus for thousands. His life has been threatened, no matter what verdict he renders.

Throughout the night extra guards waited in Judge Caverly's courtroom and patrolled the criminal courts building. With dawn the force was augmented gradually, and five hundred armed men had instructions to be in the square about the old six-story brick building by 7 a. m. They were ordered to keep all persons out of a radius of one city block from the courts building.

On the last night of uncertainty as to their fate, the slayers did not appear worried over today's possibilities. Both sat heartily and then read books during the afternoon.

The boys were in excellent spirits yesterday, joking with visitors. Leopold offered to wager on Judge Caverly's decision.

"I'll bet we hang, or bet we don't take your choice," he said.

Judge John R. Caverly, piloted by a large force of motor policemen and guarded on all sides by mounted officers, reached the criminal courts building about 10 minutes of nine and in a few minutes had made his way to the court room to impose the penalty upon Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb for slaying Robert Franks.

No untoward incident was reported on the judge's trip down town from his residence. A battery of cameras rushed the only noteworthy reception to the judge as he alighted from the car in which he was escorted by service men and operatives were riding.

In contrast to the great difficulty and confusion attending Judge Caverly's attempt to gain his chamber on two occasions during the process of the hearing, his entry this morning was not halted in a single instance. He was "expressed" to his chambers.

Judge Caverly immediately summoned his chief clerk and ordered him to maintain quiet dignity and order in the courtroom in the time intervening between the hour before calling court to order. He then gave himself up to chatting and conferring with the other officers and a few friends. No one was permitted beyond the gate which led to his private room. More operatives were stationed there.

For the youths, Benjamin and Walter Bachrach and Clarence S. Darrow, Nathan Leopold, Sr., Allan Loeb, a brother of Richard, and a new friend of the two boys' families entered the courtroom shortly after Judge Caverly arrived.

Streets surrounding the criminal courts building were virtually deserted shortly before 8 o'clock the only visible signs of activity being the arrival of the police at intervals of about a hundred feet in each of the four blocks forming the square in which the court building and county jail are located.

The entrance to the court building was guarded by a squad of detectives each member of which closely scrutinized every person entering the building. Credentials which were necessary to pass each sentinel in the street leading to the entrance were carefully inspected.

Jacob Loeb, uncle of Richard arrived twenty minutes before the time set for court to convene. His arrival completed the preparation of the families of the defendants.

The courtroom at this time was about one third full, newspapermen, photographers, friends and counsel for the two youths, court officers and the court marshal were present.

The judge's room was a small, plain, unadorned room. Judge Caverly's room was soon locked to any admittance.

At 9:20 a. m. Robert E. Crowe, states attorney, and his assistants, Joseph E. Crowe, Jr., and Joseph E. Crowe, Jr., and Milton Smith, took their seats before the bench.

The prosecutors were accompanied by Samuel Edleson, personal attorney for Jacob Franks, father of the victim. He announced that Mr. Franks would not be present. In his place, Edwin Gresham, an uncle of the boy, was in court.

Leopold and Loeb were brought to the courtroom at 9:25 a. m.

No newspapermen were allowed to talk to the two boys this morning. The only visitor that gained admittance to the courtroom was a tiny white kitten that in some manner scurried into Leopold's cell.

"Find seats or leave the courtroom," said Judge Caverly as court opened. The boys were seated in the front row. The defendants wore their usual morning smiles as they entered.

Without preliminary, Judge Caverly started reading his decision. He halted to rebuke photographers.

"My judgment in this case will be based upon what I think is right. It is my conscience only that is to be satisfied in making my decision regardless of what anyone else thinks. It is impossible to satisfy everybody and these hundreds of letters and personal suggestions I have received will not affect my decision in respect to what 'water on a duck's back'."

The present case, the judge said, differed from others in that the state was not forewarned of the plea of guilt.

"The plea of guilt did not form a point in favor of the defense," he said. "The testimony has been detailed and elaborate and has been given such credence that it is not possible to repeat any now," said Judge Caverly. "But the court feels it its duty to say that the defendants are abnormal. Otherwise they would not have committed the crime."

As Judge Caverly rapidly read his decision the two boys gave him a very studied and unexpressive inspection. Loeb, with his hands resting on his legs and Leopold, with his hands crossed, inclined, scarcely moved. They were virtually immovable.

Not a muscle moved in Leopold's face as Judge Caverly eyed him. Leopold rapidly blinked his eyelids, gulped almost unnoticeably and slightly contracted his lips. Not a portion of their bodies moved.

Leopold and Loeb were quickly on their feet when court was adjourned. Leopold by his own momentum and the thrust of his bailiff was almost through the crown en route back to his cell before Loeb had been started. Loeb took a few seconds to strip off his coat and pressed his lips in evident control of emotion.

Finally the crowd was convinced that it would see nothing and it dissipated. Meanwhile, Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman's office was busy preparing a list of names for the warden of the Joliet penitentiary. It was thought the boys would be started to their life cells shortly after noon.

Leopold and Loeb ordered stacks of newspapers and every side dish they could think of for their dinner, the sheriff said.

"It may be the last good meal we will get in our lives," they said.

PRISONERS REMAINED CALM.
(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—The two youthful defendants arose at 6:30 a. m. after a night of unbroken slumber. They ate heartily of a breakfast consisting of eggs, toast, sausage and coffee. Several sticks of chewing gum were on the food tray.

"I'm glad the strain of the trial is over today," Loeb told a jail attendant. Leopold made no statement.

Jail attendants said that if they had not known this was the day on which the prisoners were to be sentenced, there would be nothing in the action of the boys to indicate the pending proceedings.

Both Loeb and Leopold were calm and unperturbed at 8 o'clock, the hour at which the watch is changed in the jail.

REVIEW OF CASE.
Robert Franks, 14-year old son of Jacob Franks, retired president of a watch case manufacturing company and a former pawnbroker, was kidnapped while enroute to the family home at 5532 Ellis Avenue, Chicago, from the nearby playground of the Harvard preparatory school, a private institution he attended, late in the afternoon of May 21, 1924.

While the family searching frantically for the boy, a telephone message informed Mrs. Franks that Robert had been kidnapped, that he was safe, and that the family would be advised further as to how to recover him.

Early the next morning Mr. Franks received a neatly typed special delivery letter bearing the signature of "George Johnson," in the dictation marks "G.K.R." informing him that Robert was held for $10,000 ransom, that the lad was safe, and to stand by for further instructions as to how to pay the ransom and recover the boy.

At dawn the next morning a workman traversing the Pennsylvania railroad tracks at 18th street, a wild, uninhabited section just inside the southern corporate limits of Chicago, saw the feet of a nude boy protruding from a culvert between two small lakes. The body was taken to an undertaker's establishment where it rested unidentified until late in the afternoon, when a brother of Mrs. Franks went to the morgue on a chance that the body might be that of Robert.

He identified it positively although a pair of hornrimmed spectacles were found near the culvert and the undertaker thought they belonged to the boy.

When began one of the greatest manhunt in the history of Chicago, because of the evident brutality of the murderers and the prominence of the Franks family. More than a score of persons, including two instructors at the Harvard school, were enlisted in the hunt, and they were told to disprove connection with the kidnapping and murder.

Columns of newspaper space were devoted to the case but the headlines were diminishing in size as hope of apprehending the murderers dwindled when unexpectedly Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, announced on May 29 that Richard Loeb, son of Albert H. Loeb, 5017 Ellis Avenue, vice-president of Sears Roebuck and Co., and Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., son of wealthy paper box manufacturer and shipyard man, 4734 Greenwood Avenue, had confessed to the kidnapping and murder.

It developed that all clues with the exception of the spectacles found near the body had been exhausted by tracing thousands of prescriptions for spectacles, the state's attorney finally eliminated all but four which called for spectacles the same as those found alongside the body. Of the quartet, the officers seized only Leopold. He previously had been questioned by the police because of his known frequent trips to the place where the Frank boy's body was found, but was released when he explained that his interest in the locality was based solely upon his study of ornithology, the science of bird life, the region abounding in unusual specimens.

Loeb and Leopold related what at first appeared to be an unimpeachable alibi. Leopold finally admitted possible ownership of the spectacles but had about convinced the authorities that he had lost them while on a legitimate trip to the neighborhood on the day and evening of the kidnapping was broken when Sven Englund, the Leopold chauffeur, asserted that the red Willis Knight automobile in which the boys declared they had been driving, had not been left at Leopold garage at the time specified. Loeb, upon learning that exclaimed "My God, can that be true? Give me a glass of water," and within a few minutes was relating a complete confession of his participation in the kidnapping and murder.

Leopold, told that Loeb was a confessor, also made a detailed confession. The two statements, given in all details except the one as to actual participation in the kidnapping, maintained that they had been driving the automobile into which the Franks boy was enticed and killed and that the other had struck the death dealing blow.

The confession set out that the two were intent on committing the "perfect crime." In detail they ran: The crime had been planned for several months. No particular victim had been selected. The afternoon on which the Franks boy was chosen had been spent in reconnoitering the Harvard school district for a possible subject. John Levinson, 8-year-old of Julius Rosenwald, a philanthropist and president of Sears & Co., was singled out. He escaped, however, in the general rush home at the end of the baseball game in which the boys were participating, and partly because of the presence of an instructor.

Loeb and Leopold were driving slowly down the street, having abandoned hope for the day, when suddenly they spotted Bobby Franks enroute home. Loeb addressed him, but he demurred. He said he had only a short distance to go home and preferred to walk. Loeb, who had played tennis frequently with the lad, insisted that he wanted to talk with him about a new tennis racket, whereupon Bobby entered the machine.

Seated, he was struck upon the head with a taped cold chisel, and was stuffed into the car. The kidnappers, not realizing that the boy was dead, drove about for a time intending to kill the child when they reached the place they had selected for disposing the body. They finally reached the rendezvous, stripped the boy of his clothes and poured an acid solution into his face with the intention of figuring it beyond recognition. Leopold donned wading boots, strode into the water and thrust the body face downward into the culvert. It stuck and he forced it further with his foot, and in the haste in the darkness left the murdered boy's feet protruding. Also in the hurry of leaving the scene, Loeb picked up Leopold's hat bottom up and lost it near the culvert. He also left one of Bobby's brown sport stockings and his cap.

Loeb and Leopold then proceeded to dispose of various articles of the boy's clothing, the automobile in which the body had been wrapped and the other things used in the murder. Some were burned, some were buried in widely separated spots and the boy's clothes were buried from the automobile not far from the scene of the kidnapping.

The automobile used was obtained from a rent-a-car agency and was of the same type as the kidnaping car. To obtain it the youths used assumed names, registered at two hotels and established two bank accounts.

The ransom letter was prepared well in advance of the kidnapping, and the envelope left undressed, that feature to depend upon the child chosen for death. The typewriter was a portable stolen from the house of a fraternal officer of the Loyal Order of the Moose, of which Loeb was a member before he was graduated from the University of Michigan. The letter written, the typewriter was damaged badly and thrown into a lagoon in Jackson Park.

The morning of the finding of the Franks boy's body, but before it had been identified, Loeb and Leopold again telephoned the Franks home but Mr. Franks again was absent. He telephoned again instructing Mr. Franks to ride in a taxi cab to a certain drug store where he would receive other telephonic instructions as to how to pay over the ransom. Mr. Franks knew by then that his son was dead and refused to enter the taxi-cab. The youth intended to instruct Mr. Franks to board a fast train for the East and at a specified point hand a clear box containing the money from the train. Additional instructions were in a letter placed in a message rack in a major car. That letter was found later at Jackson Park.

Upon concluding their confessions, Loeb and Leopold agreed to go with officers and prosecutors on a tour of the route they had traveled from the moment the last article in connection with his murder was disposed of. They pointed out the various spots where they had buried or burned articles and assisted the officers in their recovery. The typewriter was retrieved from the lagoon by a professional diver.

Shortly after the youths had confessed, Clarence S. Darrow, veteran criminal lawyer, and Walter and Benjamin Bachrach, brothers, were engaged in their behalf. Their first act was to seek writs of habeas corpus to remove the boys from the custody of the state's attorney and have them placed in jail.

The boys confessed on May 31 and six days later the Cook county grand jury indicted them on charges of murder and kidnapping for ransom, both punishable by death in Illinois.

On June 11, they appeared before Judge John R. Caverly, chief justice of the Criminal courts of Cook county, pleaded not guilty and moved without bail for trial beginning August 4. Ten days later their pleas unexpectedly were changed to guilty and the court consented to hear evidence as to the nature of the crime.

from the state and testimony in mitigation of punishment offered by the defense.

The formal hearing began July 23. The state introduced 82 witnesses, who testified as to the aggravation of the crime, the defense countered with a score, including four eminent mental pathologists, and the state closed with testimony in rebuttal of the emotional and one student of endocrinology.

The mooted subject of the crime, the actual slayer, seemed definitely settled by the testimony of Dr. Bernard Glueck of New York, defense counsel, corroborated by Dr. H. Hubert of Chicago, that Loeb struck the fatal blow.

The defense based its plea for penitentiary sentences rather than death on the gallows on a finding of a degree of "mental sickness" short of insanity, however, in both youths, attributing it to functional disorders of the endocrine glands, childish phantasies continuing into the mature years as malign influences, and stunted growth.

The state sought to prove that the youths were entirely responsible mentally, emotionally and physically.

Both the Leopold and Loeb families disclaimed any intention to use the enormous wealth to cheat the law and were agreed that the boys were menaces to society and should be confined, although they desired for them the same defense permitted any other lawbreaker in an effort to save their lives.

It was brought out on the witness stand that the four alienists were to receive a fee of $250 a day. The attorneys' fees would be stipulated by a committee composed of the officers of the bar association of Chicago.

The participation of the Franks family in the hearing was not elaborated upon. Two of the alienists for the prosecution, one of whom testified his fee was to be $250 a day, said they had been engaged for the state through Samuel Edleson, former corporation counsel for Chicago, and a friend of the Franks family. He advised with the prosecution but did not participate openly.

Mr. and Mrs. Franks appeared as opening day witnesses to use the word of a delict, and Foreman Leopold, brother of Nathan, and Allan Loeb, brother of Richard, and Jacob M. Loeb, uncle of Richard, and Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., son of the president of the board of the defendants' families on the witness stand.

The youthful murderers were graduated as the youngest members of their classes at the University of Chicago, each now being 19 years old. They are sons of old Chicago families. The Leopold family has been in Chicago since 1857. Albert H. Loeb, father of Richard, was born in Chicago in 1858. The grandfathers of both youths were among those who like Carl Schurz, came to this country from Germany because of the failure of the revolution of 1848. Both families like the family of Bobby Franks are of Hebrew descent.

LOOKS LIKE SOME JOB
NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Bellevue's entire clerical staff begins a search for the "needle in the haystack." Somewhere among its 60,000 filed letters is one received last May from these defendants. Because of a $1,000,000 legacy. Because of a change in departmental heads no one at the hospital remembers the lawyer's name under which the letter is filed.

Doctors in the ward where David has been a patient since last February want to get in touch with the lawyer. "Term is a victim of aphasia following a paralytic stroke and needs a tutor to learn again how to talk. He was homeless and broke when brought to Bellevue and does not yet know of the bequest from his uncle in Ireland."

$250,000 GEM ROBBERY IS STAGED IN NEW YORK

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Jewelry valued at $250,000 was stolen from the home of J. S. Cadden, wealthy oil man and race horse owner, at Sands Point, L. I., on Monday night. It was announced today by Gerard L. Wals, head of the investigating company which is in charge of the search for the robbers.

Some of the gems belonged to Lord and Lady Mountbatten, who accompanied the Prince of Wales to this country and who were guests at the Cadden home.

Mrs. Richard Norton, another member of the prince's party, also lost some jewelry. The robbery was committed by a sneak thief who entered the Cadden home.

Mrs. Cadden, Lady Mountbatten and Mrs. Norton while they were away Monday night, most of the jewelry had been left on bureau and dressing tables by the three women. Mrs. Cadden's loss was placed at approximately $80,000. Lord Mountbatten is a cousin of the Prince of Wales.

The indictment is that you, Richard Loeb, be confined in the penitentiary at Joliet for the term of your life. It is the sentence that you, Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., be confined in the penitentiary at Joliet for the term of 99 years.

"In 33,624, kidnapping for ransom, the sentence of the court is that you, Richard Loeb, be confined in the penitentiary at Joliet for the term of 99 years."

"The sheriff may retire with the prisoners."

Movie Stars
Are Using These Rare Powders By Edna Wallace Hopper.

I did not intend to supply powders to women. My only idea was to furnish them my greatest beauty help. But thousands of women have urged me, by letter and in person to tell them the powders I use.

Like all my friends on the stage and in the movies, I use very costly powders. I have them made to my order and they cost me $5 per box. Our careers depend on our looks and nothing is too costly.

Edna Wallace Hopper.
I have persuaded the makers to offer these powders at ordinary prices. I order them in quantities under my name. I offer them at my expense to girls and women who desire the best.

Now all druggists and toilet counters supply Edna Wallace Hopper's powders. There are two kinds. For myself I prefer a clinging powder, a cold cream powder, based on my Youth Cream. It is enduring. That Youth Cream Powder costs $1. But many women prefer a light and fluffy powder. If you want that kind, it costs but 50 cents. Both kinds come in three shades—white, flesh and brunette.

So far as I know, these powders are the finest in existence. You may be sure that if anyone produced a better powder I would get it quickly. Anyone who uses common powders will gain a conception of what I mean. Let me send you a sample. Just mail this coupon and tell me the kind you want.

GARNETT ASKED TO READ PAPER AT CONVENTION
Health Work in Schools His Subject If He Goes to New Orleans Meet

City Health Officer R. W. Garnett has been asked by the State Board of Health to read a paper before the Southern Medical Association meeting to be held in New Orleans next November on the application of the West law in the Danville schools and the relationship between the city health department and the city schools as practiced in this city. The request was made recently by the State Board of Health believes that the medical corrective work done in the local schools is in advance of that in other schools in Virginia cities and the compliment was bestowed on the city health officer as recognition of the work done here.

Dr. Garnett however is not quite certain whether he will attend the New Orleans meeting or the session of the American Public Health Association at Detroit, which meets in October. The Southern Medical Association will deal with subjects of peculiar interest to the South while broader phases of health work will be discussed at the Detroit meeting. Dr. Garnett will not reach a decision as to which place he will visit until he has seen the programmes of each one. It is his plan to attend that meeting which would prove the most beneficial to him in securing new ideas in the health work.

The council budget provides an appropriation of $100 to defray his expenses the city fathers having reached the opinion that the heads of departments should be encouraged in attending conventions because of the discussions which take place before them.

The paper which Dr. Garnett has been asked to prepare deals with the development of interest in health habits in the schools. This definite relationship between the school pupils and the health department is beneficial in that it affords an opportunity of detecting physical disorders which in their incipient stage will readily respond to treatment.

The paper will deal with the larger body and mental vigor in the adult. The West Law adopted by the Legislature provides that Virginia school teachers shall be proficient in elementary phases of health work.

Capable of matching with practical use the physical development of children and able to discern defects in vision and hearing which often hamper educational progress.

The Tangle

An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotion Revealed in Private Letters

I was unconscious for quite a while, I think, and then without sensing much I must have come to sleep for when I awakened I found myself undressed in my own bed, the light of the late morning streaming in and mother bending over me. "What has happened?" I said. Then I remembered "Where are Jack and the baby?"

"Jack is here, Leslie," said my husband's voice, and I turned slightly to see him sitting in a chair on the other side of the bed, his face all plastered and bandaged up.

"I came near killing you didn't I dear?" I felt my voice tremble as I said the words.

"Don't worry about me, darling," said Jack and there was much feeling in his tones. "You are much worse off than I. The doctor says your heart is considerably weakened. He seems to think you have had a great deal of worry and trouble lately."

For a moment Jack was silent, and I heard the footsteps of my mother, who is the most understanding of women, leaving the room.

Subconsciously Jack must have realized that we were alone, for he bent over and took me in his arms.

"Leslie, my darling, I am sorry I've been a brute. I'm always doing the wrong thing. It's my cursed selfishness, I think. You are right, dear. You're always right, and I was a beast to make any intimation that you could be anything but loyal to me even in thought."

"No," I whispered. "I could not possibly be otherwise than loyal now, for—I pulled, his head down to mine and whispered something in his ear."

"My wife, my darling wife! It isn't true—it can't be true!"

"Yes it is true, Jack. Are you glad?"

A sudden shadow passed over his face, but he quickly brought a smile to his lips.

"I'm only afraid for you dear," he said. Then as though it was brought from him against his will, he whispered:

"I hope it will be a girl!"

As Jack said this Ruth, all the suppressed fears that had been assailing me since I had known a baby was coming to me, welled up in front of me. Suppose I had a girl? Would it make any difference in my feelings for little Jack, whose childish heart I had found was all bound up in his feelings for his "pitty muver"?

Could I bear to know that my son's name must be something else than the historic one this other child bore? The name of John Alden Prescott had already been given to another woman's child. Would I hunt me if my own fish and blood could never have it?

Faintly in the distance I heard a cry from little Jack. Uncertain steps came nearer my door.

"I want my muver!" I want my muver!" said a tremulous, grieving, childish voice.

"Jack open the door and let me in!" said a voice.

"He shall have his muver!" I mused on.

Appeal Is Made For Larger Use of National Flag

The Danville Chamber of Commerce has undertaken a new movement—one designed to arouse in this community a greater spirit of patriotism among citizens by prevailing on them to buy a national flag to be kept for such occasions when it should be used.

The Chamber of Commerce has issued a circular letter, prepared and issued jointly by the Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchants Association reference is made to "such other lack of patriotic display as was evidenced by individual homes during the occasions of July 4 and the recent state Legion convention."

Accompanying the letter is a tabulated statement showing the number of flags displayed on residences by acting citizens on Tuesday, the day of the Legion parade.

In order to preclude the possibility of a recurrence of this absence of national colors the two organizations are making arrangements whereby flags may be obtained these measuring 3 by 5 feet which will be sold for $1.50 or 4 by 6 feet for $2. These prices including poles.

The tabulation of the display of flags on the residential streets made by the two organizations show that 34 were exhibited on the day of the American Legion parade while on July 4th, the statement says, no flags were displayed on Main or West Main streets.

By NEA Service.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 10.—There is no short cut to beauty. It is a long road that knows many an unpleasant and arduous bending.

Her father owns an ice company in her home town. She has been a member of the same church—and a regular attendant—since she was nine months old. For years she has been a choir girl.

As America's most glorified girl she is 18 years old, 5 feet 6 inches in height, violet eyes weighs 132 pounds and has long golden brown hair, naturally curly.

Her mother, often mistaken for Miss America's sister, is youthful and beautiful in appearance, showing that her beauty training system is of practical proportions.

Little Dorothy Stanfield has returned home after visiting relatives in Roxboro, N. C.

"I have no stage ambitions," said Miss America with decision, "but I always have wanted to be a motion picture actress."

Miss Malcomson was amateur beauty here last year winning highest honors in her class but this year she returned with a new standing and was triumphant over all comers.

She is a recent high school graduate and does not work.

Also—and this is important—she doesn't bob her hair.

TEN SIGN POSTS ALONG THE ROAD TO BEAUTY
BY MISS AMERICA (Ruth Malcomson of Philadelphia)

1 Rise early. It is the morning sun that aids the complexion. The air is snappy and nature is at its best. Eyes sparkle and blood tingles. Mornings are essential to beauty.

2 Eat a hearty breakfast. The first meal of the day should be substantial. If you rise early you will enjoy it. Breakfast should fuel your body for the whole day.

3 Exercise. It is most necessary. Long walks and frequent dancing are excellent. Swimming aids in making and keeping the figure shapely. The walking habit is wonderful and easy to acquire.

4 No alcohol. Drinking intoxicating liquors is suicide to beauty aspirations. It not only is a violation of the law of man but is against nature's decrees.

5 Smoking is detrimental. It seems to be a substitute for exercise these days. If girls spent the time devoted to cigarettes in walking around the block they would find it beneficial to health and beauty.

6 Get outdoors. Don't spend every minute of time in a theatre or at a bridge table. Walk or ride into the open, go to a baseball game or a tennis match. Let the sun see your face.

7 Eat a light lunch. If you exercise in the morning and eat a hearty breakfast you will have no hunger pangs at noon. It is the heavy lunches and candy eating in the afternoon that produces weight.

8 Eat a satisfying dinner. It should be the principal meal of the beauty's day. Eat enough but don't gorge.

9 Early to bed. This doesn't mean that one must cease living at curfew time. But it is necessary to remain up until 4 o'clock in the morning to have a good time.

10 Sleep. If you observe these rules you will not be troubled with insomnia. Your sleep, so essential to beauty, will be peaceful and uninterrupted.

BROWN BREAD SANDWICHES
Dates, prunes and figs in equal proportions chopped together and moistened with orange juice make a good filling for brown bread sandwiches.

POLISH FOR GLASSWARE
A little powdered whiting works wonders as a polisher for fine glassware.

KNIFE-SHARPENING DEVICE
In the line of kitchen equipment there is a new knife-sharpening device which may be nailed on the wall and operates very much like a pencil sharpener.

POURING FAT DRIppINGS
When you are pouring fat drippings into a basin, add an equal part of water to clarify them. All pieces of meat will sink to the bottom and the fat will be clear.

A SUSTAINING SWEET
A sustaining and pleasing sweet for ending meals or lunch is composed of a cupful each of raisins, dates, figs, prunes and shelled nuts. Put the nuts through a food chopper, then mix with fruit and pass all through a chopper twice and press into cakes wrapped in parchment paper and a delicate, wholesome sweet is made for the child.

TRANSFORM WHITE SHOES
White kid shoes that no longer clean to look as immaculate as when they were new may be converted into a useful life by giving them a bath in bronze polish.

SOAK IN AMMONIA
Cloth that has been disfigured and the color changed by acid may usually be restored by soaking the spot a few minutes in ammonia.

TO CLEAN TINWARE
To clean tinware make a paste of whiting and apply with a rag. When dry, dust off with a soft duster.

STOWAWAY RELEASED ON BOND
(By The Associated Press)
NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 10.—After being a prisoner in the city jail for more than two weeks awaiting deportation, Baron Van Westerholt Van Hacksen, who arrived here as a stowaway on the battleship Texas from Gibraltar, was released on bond today. Liberty was granted in view of the fact that the young Dutch nobleman is being held as a witness in court matters according to which he boarded the warship and lived for more than two weeks in the hold of the ship without being discovered.

He was left today for Rotterdam on the steamer Breedyk but as the Texas will not return from the southern drill grounds off the Virginia capes until Friday night, it is not expected he will have an opportunity of telling his story before Saturday.

The side reverse, which opens over a lingerie front of lace or organdie is a notable feature in fall gowns.

Drives out Roaches to be swept up dead
Modern preparation assures housewife her home is free from pests

At last the careful housewife can know that her home is free from roaches and other insect pests. Heretofore her efforts along this line have been attended with disappointing uncertainties. Just when she believed the last roach was dead, along would come another to prove her work was in vain.

Now the modern home-maker merely sprays Dethol thoroughly into the crevices where she believes roaches are hiding—and then waits a few seconds to see them come running out, where a few more sprays quickly destroy the last one.

Due to the fact that Dethol is a liquid spray, it penetrates even the tiniest cracks, along baseboards and around kitchen drains, where roaches hide and breed. The first few sprays destroy any unseen eggs and send the adult roaches scurrying out into the open to be killed with ease. Periodic sprayings with Dethol insure the fact that your home is absolutely free from these disgusting pests.

Dethol is the modern, efficient destroyer of all insect life. It kills flies, mosquitoes, roaches, ants, moths, bedbugs, etc.—positively, and at slight cost. It does not stain. Sprayed lightly on windows, tubs, tile, marble, enamel ware, etc., Dethol also cleans like magic—you simply wipe off the sprayed articles with a damp rag. Sprayed in musty places about the home, Dethol sweetly purifies and disinfects the air.

Drug, grocery, hardware and department stores sell Dethol in a handy combination package—complete with sprayer and large can of liquid—for 85c.

You really cannot afford to be without Dethol. If you don't have Dethol, we will send you the combination package, post free, on receipt of one dollar. Dethol Mfg. Co., Inc., Richmond, Va.

BERLIN ZOO SELLS MONKEYS
BERLIN, Sept. 8.—"Bargains in monkeys" are being advertised at the Berlin Zoo, where a visitor may purchase any monkey to which he takes a fancy.

The idea of selling monkeys originated with the zoo director recently when he found that he had on hand more of the comedians of the animal family than he cared to keep in stock because of the high price of peanuts. There are not quite so many buyers as the director had figured on.

FOOTBALL NEWS

NEW HAVEN—Felix Silverdask is sure of a place on the varsity. Felix doesn't know an off-kick plunge from a Greek bath tub, but he has more dizzy blondes on his staff than a scout for the Folies Bergere.

SOUTH BEND—Consternation broke out in the ranks of the "Fighting Irish" at Notre Dame when an outlander named Tad Murphy reported for practice. Covaleski, Grabowski, Ole Jensen, Holtzapfel and Semansky quit the squad in a huff.

COLUMBIA—The Houghton system will be given a new trial this year. It was found guilty on all counts last year, but as Young Leopold said, you can do anything with money.

PRINCETON—Bill Roper is ready to trade the Tigers' famous war cry, "A team that can't be beaten, can't be beaten," for one good smashing halfback and two fairly talented ends. None, without previous college experience need apply.

CENTRE COLLEGE—The praying colonels will be fired with the same spiritual zeal that has always characterized their play, but everyone realizes another Bo McMillan would be a whole lot more valuable.

CAMBRIDGE—Everything looks just dandy at Harvard. The squad is rotten, but the Dramatic Arts League is working out a perfectly ripping cheer. It starts out like this, "Once upon a time there was a little fairy prince."

CORNELL—Gil Dobie spent the summer frowning and snarling in front of his bedroom mirror and reported in the pink of condition, serenely confident of maintaining his title as the cheerless leader of football.

VASSAR—The report that a special summer school for the development of cheer leaders was held here met with vigorous denial by Miss Watts Hearn. "We grow flowers and give mandolin lessons," she admitted, "but we do not carry the feminist inclination to an extreme."

WINSTON WINS FARCE FROM PIEDMONT CHAMPS

WINSTON, Sept. 9.—The less said about the alleged ball game played here this afternoon between the local club and the Durham Bulls the better. The game terminated as all things will and the score stood 15 runs for the locals and seven for the visitors.

Race hits was the order of the day and every man on the home team got one or more.

In the final inning the Bulls sent three pitchers to bat. Caviness, who was playing first base, was first up, and Masters and Hackney were sent in as pinch hitters. Neither of the trio reached first base.

The regular Thursday at Durham the Bulls will play a three game series with the pennant winners of the Carolina League and a series with the pennant winners in the Virginia League will also be played after the close of that circuit's championship season and the victors have been determined.

As a result of smoke, Manchester, England, has an extra laundry bill of $250,000 a year.

YOUNG SONS MAY REVIVE OLD STAFF

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Sept. 9.—Will the old battery of Ed Walsh and Billy Sullivan be revived by their sons?

That question has arisen in the minds of sport followers, as it becomes certain that the sons of the famous White Sox pitcher will meet at Notre Dame for four years in baseball.

That Ed Walsh, Jr. will wear the Irish colors was assured a few days ago when the old White Sox pitcher, now coach with the Comiskey outfit, visited Notre Dame to arrange for his son's entrance into this fall.

"Many schools in the east besieged the lad with offers," the elder Walsh said, "but I and he admitted the decision, 'the final say is mine. That's why he will come to Notre Dame.'"

A number of months ago relatives of Billy Sullivan, Jr. announced that he would enter Notre Dame in September, in Massachusetts, where the prowess of the young athlete is universally known, the name of Billy Sullivan is one to conjure with.

Ed Walsh, Jr. stand six feet one inch in height and weighs 178 pounds.

"He hurls a baseball much better than I was ever able to do at his age," says his father.

Back in the old days, when the White Sox were winning pennants with regularity, Ed Walsh was a great pitcher and Billy Sullivan a great catcher.

HOPES OF PIRATES TO PREVENT ALL-EASTERN WORLD SERIES FADING

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The melancholy spot which casts its dismal shades upon major league teams that fail in the fall hovers today over Pittsburgh, forecasting the failure of the last western club which threatened to prevent an all-eastern world series.

Western hands guided the light Cincinnati of its movement Sunday by taking a doubleheader from the Pirates at the moment when Brooklyn and New York were slugging at each other. Yesterday St. Louis focused its winning two more games from McKinnis's young team by scores of 7 to 4 and 6 to 4.

Pittsburgh lost a full game to the Giants and Robins, both of whom are in the second place, and gave evidence of Pirates crumbling.

The veteran Tankees continued to tighten their game in the arm struggle with Washington down the stretch won their second straight battle on the final road trip with a ninth-inning rally that netted two runs and a 5 to 4 victory over the Red Sox. The victory advanced the world champions to within one and one-half games of Washington which was kept out of the race.

Detroit also picked up a half game by winning from the White Sox 7 to 3, when Holloway pitched effectively after Chicago's Johnson from the mound. It was the seventh straight victory for Cobb's team which pulled up to within four and one-half games of Washington and three of New York. The sixth inning brought the team to within striking distance of first place. The Tigers enjoy the advantage of a finish at home while the Senators and Yankees play in the west, but Cobb's men have only 16 more contests to play. Washington has 19 and New York 18.

O'Farrell's home run and a shoring catch by Weiss which ended a string of errors in the ninth, enabled Chicago to win a 4 to 3 victory from Cincinnati in the only other game played in the majors. Alexander hit the Reds 7 to 1, but was hit hard and relieved by Sheehan.

For the Game's Sake

By LAWRENCE PERRY

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)
NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Coaches who have already begun preliminary work with their football squads are giving a great deal of attention to the kick-off problem.

Realization that the kick-off a ball may not be held came with a disagreeable shock to certain eminent coaches who had forgotten that the rule governing this play stipulates that all players must be behind the ball.

They have been digging a groove in the gridiron. The ball is placed over it and thus the kicker is able to get his toe under when sending it away. Tom Thorpe, New York university coach, says that the expedient is working very well and he has no doubt it will be generally employed.

If no player in an important game catches his foot in this gridiron canyon and thus brings to an abrupt close a brilliant dash for touchdown, it is not likely the football rules committee will take action against the groove scheme next winter.

The intent of the rule doing away with artificial tees was not to prevent distance at the kick-off but to put a stop to delays incidental to mauling tees.

Plenty of distance is attained when the ball is kicked from over a groove although the soaring flights of the tee kick-off has not been attained. The ball seeks a lower trajectory.

Jack Moakley, Cornell's famous track coach, has rounded out 25 years of service at Ithaca. He stands like a monarch on Ithaca hills full of years an droll of honors. When Moakley came to Cornell Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Pennsylvania were established lords of track and field firmly bulwarked in tradition.

Charles Courtney was crew coach at Cornell, Glenn Warner was football coach, Hugh Jennings was coach of the baseball team, and George Connors was track coach.

A year after Moakley took hold Princeton was beaten in a dual meet and Cornell that year won a special intercollegiate meet at the Buffalo exposition in which Chicago, Georgetown and Pennsylvania were entered. From 1902 to 1912 Cornell's cross country teams won ten sequential championships. He piloted Cornell to her first intercollegiate meet victory in 1905. Since then the glory of perfection Slater in 1922 was near, and individual athletes coached by Moakley that space cannot be taken to specify them.

Just now track and cross country at Ithaca do not seem to be at their brightest, but this is merely a temporary ebb such as occurs from time to time at every university and college.

"BUZZ" ARTLETT

Baseball has never had a perfect player. Ruth, Cobb, Speaker and other headliners, great in many respects all had a deficiency of some sort which denied them the glory of a perfect player. Artlett is nearer to all-round greatness than any other notable but George lacked Ruth's mighty driving power. Out on the Pacific Coast they have advanced Buzz Artlett, Oakland's star outfielder, as the 100 per cent. ball player. Artlett is equally gifted in the four most important phases of the game—hitting, throwing, running and fielding. Moreover, he has the instinct of the natural born player. Artlett used to be a pitcher. And a good one, too. The Boston Braves bid $30,000 for him. When his arm went bad he turned to outfielding. Overnight he became a sensation. Artlett is not young. He has been in the game nearly ten years. For that reason the 100 per cent. of the Coast League may never come to the big leagues.

The Sportsman

By WALTER CAMP

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Columbia football squad of forty men as it is fielded under Percy Haughton, is scarcely half the size it will be after college opens September 24, but already the squad looks more like a football team than any of the Blue and White has turned out for a long time.

Taking advantage of the cool spell, Haughton has been pushing the work hard, counting very wisely upon the fact that if a hot spell comes along he will have to let up a bit, for some of his material is higher now than it should be, owing probably to the fact that the team has been fairly conditioned this summer. Haughton could do with a few more heavies as a bulwark to his line and these may show up after the 24th.

Former Eds and Douglas Layson, the former a backfield and kicking coach, and the latter a line coach, are not with Haughton this year. The others, plus Frank Brown, the coach, and the staff, are handling the team in good shape. The coaching list includes besides Haughton, Paul Whittington, Bill Murray, Charlie Crowley, Robert Barr, all of Harvard; Depler, University of Illinois; and Brine, a last year's graduate of Columbia.

SEN. RANDELL IS RENOMINATED

Returns Give Him Good Majority Over Thomas For Senate

(By The Associated Press)
NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 10.—Senator Joseph E. Ransdell of Lake Providence apparently was renominated in yesterday's Democratic primary by an estimated majority of more than 2,000 votes over Lee Thomas, mayor of Shreveport, according to unofficial returns early today.

Returns from approximately 1,000 precincts of the state's 1,311 including the city of New Orleans, complete, gave Ransdell 75,977, Thomas, 52,076.

Mr. Thomas early today had not conceded defeat.

Reports from the Sixth congressional district indicated a close race between Representative George K. Fayot of Baton Rouge, and Bolivar Kemp of Amite. Returns from 120 of the 177 precincts in the district, gave Fayot 10,977, Kemp, 9,792.

This was the only one of the eight congressional districts in which there was a contest, the other seven congressmen having no opposition.

Huey P. Long, chairman of the public service commission and candidate for governor last year, was running far ahead of his opponent, State Senator W. L. Bakwell, of West Carroll Parish, for renomination to the public service commission.

Firpo concluded his training yesterday with a final workout against Miguel Ferrara and Eli Tate. Willis rounded out his two months of preparation at Southampton, with a wife and the unnoted with his wife and relative to his home in Harlem.

Tomorrow morning both will go to Jersey City to weigh in before the New Jersey boxing commission. Willis will occupy a cottage near the arena and Firpo will go to the Elks club to remain until he leaves for the ring.

Willis is expected to tip the scales around 220 pounds. Firpo weighed 215 after his final session.

Legal efforts to prevent the bout apparently failed with the refusal of President Coolidge and Governor Sizoo of New Jersey to interfere with the machinery of the department of labor and the New Jersey boxing commission.

German Deciphers Babylonian Music Composed 800 B. C.

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, Sept. 10.—Babylonian music written about the year 800 B. C. which has been deciphered by Dr. Kurt Sachse, curator of the instruments collection in the Berlin high school of music, apparently was played on a 22-string harp, and the notes have many characteristic similarities to the Chinese music of today. The instrument on which the music was played used octaves double octaves and chords in fourths and fifths.

Details of the task of deciphering the music were described by the Prussian Academy of Science recently by Professor C. Strumpf from texts furnished by Dr. Sachs. The earthenware tablet upon which the music was written in the middle eastern for a long time in the middle eastern section of the Prussian State Museum. In size it is roughly equal to five ordinary bricks. The tablet was unearthed in Assur, the Babylonian capital and while the music is believed to be about 2,000 years old, it is thought to represent notes of even a much earlier period.

The inscription is in three columns. The first column contains some marks heretofore undeciphered and the second is a religious poem, descriptive of the creation of man from the blood of the gods. In the Sumerian tongue—a tongue even then long dead except as a language of religion and the law. The third is a faulty translation of the poem of Assur.

The inscription in the first column, written in cuneiform, consisted of Sumerian words of one syllable written upon line, but apparently without sequence or meaning. Hitherto it had defeated the efforts of the Assyriologists, as has also a somewhat similar tablet in the British Museum, London containing six columns, of which the first and fourth were undecipherable.

The Assyriologists at the Prussian Museum recently conceived the idea that the first column might be intended to express a rhythm or even time, and Doctor Sachs, taking up this theory as a practical musician and antiquarian, began to test it. In 70 lines he found 22 different syllables. By a process of condensation Dr. Sachs reduced all the sounds and after overcoming a great many other difficulties he concluded that the cuneiform notation represented a polyphonic system.

WINE MERCHANT SAYS TOBACCO SPOILS TASTE FOR CHOICE BRANDS

(By The Associated Press)

STRASBURG, Sept. 10.—Thirty Americans who visit a famous old-fashioned wine restaurant in this city, which has a cellar that is known to connoisseurs all over Europe, are frequently surprised at not being able to obtain vintages which have been recommended to them by friends.

The proprietor is an artist in blending food and wines and will not serve his choice wines to persons who order cocktails and begin smoking before their dinner.

He insists that the cocktail and all other mixed drinks are a nuisance which should be confined to restaurants and bars which do not specialize in fine wines and will not waste his precious cellar on men and women who spoil their taste for delicate wine by mixing tobacco up with their dinner.

In New York

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—New York stage door John—the brave young blades who wait expectantly and with well filled pocketbooks for the footlight boules—are more ardent in their midnight trysts than their English brothers of London, according to three chorus members of a British musical revue whom I interviewed last night.

The English girls pretty and far better dancers, as a group, than American chorines have been here for months, so their observations are interesting.

"In London," they related, "if a boy out front takes a shine to a girl in the show, he modestly sends notes in candy and flowers for at least two months before he would dare bring a stage door meeting."

Then to contrast the situation, "But here in New York, the dashing American boys, rush up, take you by the hand and say, 'I like your looks. You'll like me when you know me better. Come quick let's waste no time becoming acquainted.'"

The strange part, they confided, as the American boys with their strenuous methods are very frequently successful in their stage door raids on the English girls.

"We like them heaps we think they are very amusing."

"Under their blousy veneer the American boys are very conventional—far more so than English men. Why they are very proper about when and where girls smoke cigarettes."

CESSATION OF WAR FORCED BY WEATHER

(By The Associated Press.) SHANGHAI, Sept. 9.—Heavy rains which fell today have put a stop temporarily at least to the battles which have been in progress for a week past between the Chekiang and Kiangsu armies west of this city. For the possession of which the governors of the two provinces appealed to the force of arms.

It is a tradition in China that Chinese soldiers will not fight when the sun is strong or rain falls. In fact in the low lying country between the Yangtze River and Shanghai-Nanking railway, east of this city where the battles are staged, and which is intersected by numerous creeks and canals, fighting is next to impossible after a rain, the whole country being flooded.

From reports of eye witnesses and the Chekiang headquarters, the rain came, as the Chekiang armies were launching counter attacks at Linho on the Yangtze river and Hwangtu on the railroad where they previously had repulsed Kiangsu attacks. Both counter attacks, it is claimed, met with a measure of success.

Meanwhile, another Chekiang army is advancing from the south around Lake Taihu with Chang Chow, an important city on the railway, is its objective, hoping there to cut the lines of the enemy.

To assist the marines landed from the foreign warships to protect the international and French settlements the municipal council has introduced drastic orders prohibiting the appearance of soldiers in the city.

HAYES HAS RULING DEALERS UP IN ARMS

Modification of His Orders Is Obtained on "License Applied For" Problem

Recent rulings made by State Motor Vehicle Commissioner James M. Hayes have been received here with dismay on the part of licensed dealers in this city who insist that the recent action has been made difficult and a blow struck at the legitimate car market. The rulings complained of, however, have been tempered by permission granted to the dealers and authorities to issue special five day permit cards authorizing the owners of new machines to use them immediately and thus overcoming one of the chief objections raised by the dealers.

Mr. Hayes recently gave orders to his deputies to arrest all persons found driving cars without license tags and without papers showing their title to such cars. With the result that about twenty Danville car owners were haled before Magistrate Carter a few days ago. The police justice unwilling to impose penalties on persons who had gone as far as he could to supply himself with the necessary license plates and papers withheld judgment and showed a desire to deal fairly with all of them.

The state motor vehicle commissioner claims that the "license applied for" privilege has been abused in this section and that persons have been driving cars with these cardboard signs when in reality no application has been made. To carry out to the strict letter the ruling made by Mr. Hayes would have meant that a person but a car in Danville could not make use of it for about sixty days or the time which is now consumed in tracing the title to the machine and meeting all the requirements of the state motor vehicle law. This motor dealers claim would have injured business in no uncertain way.

Efforts are being made to secure the presence here of Mr. Hayes but so far the local authorities have been unable to make an engagement with him. Until he comes, however, persons who buy cars and who have no tags nor title must secure a temporary card or permit from Chief Bell authorizing him or her to operate the car for five days. In other words, the person found driving a car without a license tag or with out proper papers and especially those parts of it relating to the securing of title certificates was done with a view to making the tracing of stolen cars easier. Motor dealers declare that while the letter of the law is good, it has resulted in a clerical detail of such proportions that a maze of red tape has to be gone through with before cars can be sold or licensed.

NEW YORK COTTON.

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Renewal of southern better selling and liquidation promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables, expectations of a favorable weekly weather review and rumors of an easier spot basis, sent prices still lower in the cotton market today.

The opening was steady at an advance of one point to a decline of 7 points but the demand was soon supplied prices breaking to 23.25 for October and 22.55 for December or 15 to 21 points net lower before the end of the first hour.

Private cables said Liverpool was still influenced by the bureau report and lack of demand.

Everyman's Investments

By GEORGE T. HUGHES

Sixty-eighth Article.
"Taking Profits."

One question that continuously comes to my desk is about "taking profits." The investor has bought a bond or a preferred stock at a lower price than the present market. He asks if he should sell out and reinvest his increased principal elsewhere. Generally he is eager to do this very thing. Congratulating himself upon his good judgment and thoughtless he takes the risk of converting his paper profit into a real one. Now sometimes it may be that such a course is advisable but usually it is a mistake.

If the security in question is a high grade investment which has advanced in market price any substitute of equal quality will also have advanced and when the investor replaces his holdings with something else he must either take a greater risk or accept the same return he is now receiving.

If the security in question is semi-speculative the fact it has advanced is not necessarily a sign that it should be sold. It merely proves that the judgment which prompted the purchase in the first place was sound. You might, of course, be equally fortunate a second time but that is another question.

The problem of shifting about one's investment should be approached regardless of the prices at which these investments were first accumulated. It is difficult to do this but it is absolutely essential if the best results are to be secured. The rules applied just as well when mistakes have been made and the quotation for the bond or stock held as declined instead of advanced.

The profit or the loss on the original investment must be entirely disregarded in reaching a decision as to whether the security should be retained or disposed of. Bear this in mind. The market place where quotations are made and unmade is not interested in whether you have a profit or a loss.

There is only one question for you to answer and that is this, namely, will you better your investment position by selling or will you regret it. Speculators understand this principle better than investors. The successful speculator, assuming that there are successful speculators, sells a security at a loss when he believes that it is the right time to do so or holds that if he is convinced that conditions warrant it. Apply the same rule to your investments. Do not throw them overboard just because you cannot get as much for them as you paid.

Real value is the only thing that counts and those who take this into account will in the long run be the most successful investors.

BLEASE AHEAD INS. C. PRIMARY

Former Governor Leading Byrnes for Senate—Returns Nearly Complete

(By The Associated Press)
COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 10.—Cole L. Blease, twice governor of South Carolina and twice before a candidate for the senatorship, was leading James F. Byrnes, representative from the second South Carolina district, by a margin of 2-210 votes for the Democratic nomination as United States senator upon the basis of nearly complete unofficial returns from yesterday's run off primary, tabulated here early today.

The total representing 1,295 precincts out of 1,354 stood: Blease 27,462; Byrnes 25,252.

John M. Daniel, assistant attorney general, was leading J. Monroe Spears of Darlington, 28,122 to 22,924 for attorney general and B. Harris, incumbent, had a safe margin over James W. Shealy, of Lexington for commissioner of agriculture, their respective votes being 104,366 and 89,305.

Thomas McMillan of Charleston, defeated Representative W. Turner Logan for the latter's seat in Congress from the first district and in the second district Butler B. Hare of Saluda, was nominated over Solicitor Robert L. Gunter of Aiken for the place now held by Representative Byrnes. Although the returns were incomplete the missing boxes were said to contain insufficient votes to change the relative standings as shown by this morning's tabulation. The vote was: McMillan 11,192; Logan 8,337; Hare 11,322; Gunter 2,163.

Former Governor Blease went into a lead over Representative Byrnes in the first returns received and he held his lead throughout the night with the exception of a brief period when the Aiken congressman had some 400 votes more than his opponent. The margin separating the two candidates was seldom greater than 2,000 votes, although at times Mr. Blease's lead approached 4,000. Later returns favored Mr. Byrnes slightly, with the result that the final computation of available reports showed a difference of 2,210 between them.
